Ellie's Hats

Ellie's Hats came about because of a little girl's love of crazy hats. In the spring of 2013, Ellie was diagnosed with leukemia at the age of four. Shortly after starting treatment, Ellie lost most of her hair, but she was determined to not let cancer get the best of her. Wearing an assortment of fun hats allowed her to express her unique personality and remain a vivacious kid. Ellie's Hats mission is to donate hats to children with cancer and to raise childhood cancer awareness. The hope is that by showing these brave children that others are thinking about them it will help bring a little cheer into their day. I.C. Norcom DECA will be supporting Ellie's Hats by bringing in new hats and delivering them to CHKD.
